The Growth Journey

The University of Delhi is a premier University of the country and is globally recognized for its high academic standards in teaching and research. It was established in 1922 as a unitary, teaching and residential University by an Act of the then Central Legislative Assembly. The President of India is the Visitor, the Vice - President of India is the Chancellor and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of India is the Pro -Chancellor of the University. Ever since its inception, a strong commitment to excellence in teaching and research has made the University of Delhi a role-model and path-setter for other universities in the country. At the time of its inception the University had two faculties – Arts and Science, and only three colleges in Delhi affiliated to it with a student strength of 750. The three colleges were: St. Stephen's College founded in 1881, Hindu College founded in 1899 and Ramjas College founded in 1917. The Delhi College (Zakir Hussain College) is the oldest college in Delhi, started in 1792. In 1929, the gate which Lord Lake had demolished was rebuilt and was raised to the status of a degree college in 1934. The college suffered badly during partition in 1947, but started again in 1948 under its old name Delhi College. In 1975 it was renamed Zakir Hussain College. In a meeting held on July 26, 2010 Zakir Husain Memorial Trust unanimously resolved to rename the college as Zakir Husain Delhi College in order to retain a sense of historical continuity.

The Commercial High School started under the trust set up by Lala Shri Ram. It was raised in 1926 to the standard of an intermediate college and in 1934 to a post graduate college. Its name was changed to Shri Ram College of Commerce in 1951.

The story of University of Delhi begins in 1911, when Emperor King George V, announced to transfer capital of India from Calcutta to Delhi. It was felt that the Imperial capital should have a University of its own, to begin with the government thought not of a University but a government college. In 1918, a committee consisting of Principal S. K. Rudra of St. Stephen's, Principal N. V. Thadani of Hindu, A. T. Gidwani of Ramjas and Wali Mohammed was constituted which submitted its report on constitution of such a college.

Later on, the Delhi University Bill was referred to a Joint Select Committee consisting of seven members of the Council of States - Raja Harnam Singh, A. I. Mayhew, Ganganath Jha, Julfikar Ali Khan, Bhugri and Lalubhai Samaldas with the education member, Muhammad Shafi as Chairman. The Delhi University bill was introduced in the Imperial Legislative assembly on January 16, 1922. The members of the Legislative assembly were Hari Singh Gour, D. P. Sarbadhikari, Abdul Qasim, J. P. Kotelingam and Henry Sharp. The report of the committee was presented to the Legislative Assembly on February 13, 1922 and later to Council of states.

The Delhi University Bill was passed by the Assembly on February 22, 1922 and council of states on February 28, 1922. The Viceroy gave his assent to the Bill on March 5, 1922. It aimed at the establishment of a unitary teaching and residential university which was to be under the control of the Government of India, the Viceroy being the Chancellor. A Vice-Chancellor was to be appointed by the Chancellor. The general bodies would be a court, an executive council and an academic council. After discussion with the Principals of the colleges the Governor-General-in-Council directed that the Act should come into force on May 1, 1922 and a notification of this effect was issued on April 6, 1922. The existing colleges were to retain their names and the power of appointing their staff but the university was given the power of recognizing staff members of colleges as University teachers.

Shaheed Bhagat Singh's Chamber at Vice Regal Lodge

Honorary degrees were conferred on Lord Reading, Mohammad Shafi and Hari Singh Gaur in the first convocation of the University held on March, 26 1923 at the legislative assembly.

Trials for the Delhi Assembly Bomb Case were held at the Viceregal Lodge. Bhagat Singh was pronounced guilty on June 12, 1929. It is commonly believed that Bhagat Singh was kept in the dungeon-like basement of the Viceregal Lodge, in a windowless room, strongly guarded before being condemned to death.

National Education Policy (NEP) 2020: UGCF 2022

The University of Delhi has been the torch bearer in expanding the academic horizon and raising the bar of academic standard in the country. Keeping up with this tradition, the University has implemented the National Education Policy 2020 (NEP 2020), a policy aimed at changing the academic landscape of education system of the country.

The NEP 2020 aims to overhaul the education system in India right from preschool to the doctoral level. The University has framed a structure for the implementation of NEP at the undergraduate level which is called the Undergraduate Curricular Framework 2022 (UGCF).

The UGCF embeds the various fundamental aspects of NEP and maintains a uniform credit system throughout the eight semesters.

The UGCF is student centric and attempts to give maximum choices and flexibility to students to develop their own academic paths. It has made provision for slow and fast pace learners. The structure of UGCF and the syllabi prepared under it are meant to provide in-depth knowledge in one or more disciplines, multidisciplinary and holistic education along with the skills of 21st century.

The NEP 2020 envisages Internship, apprenticeship, projects and community outreach have been made an integral part. The conventional separation of arts and science, curricular & extracurricular and academic & vocational have been broken down to ensure holistic education. Students who have got admission in 2022-23 to the University and its colleges through a common entrance exam (called CUET) have been administered the first semester of the syllabi prepared under UGCF 2022. To provide more hands-on learning, the University has framed more than hundred skill enhancement courses for the students of the first year of the undergraduate programmes. These skills, which includes both soft skills and technical skills, are expected to enhance the capabilities of the students and raise the employability.

The NEP 2020 envisages imparting life skills as well as technical and professional skills as part of holistic education. University of Delhi has prepared various Skill Enhancement Courses (SEC) in different domains to provide kinds of skills to the student, such as Communication skills, Computer related skills, Coding skills, financial management skills, etc. with higher degree of hands on learning so as to equip them with the skills of their choice suitable to the academic path they choose.

The Value Addition courses (VAC) Seek to full fill the mandate of providing holistic education to the students and introduce them to the rich heritage of the nation as well as to important social concerns of the current time, which will help them to adjust in learning and living. A student who pursue any under graduates programme in the university and its colleges is offered a pool of VAC and SEC courses, from which he has to choose one.

Admissions: Common University Entrance Test (2022)

The vision and mission of the University have been duly incorporated in the expanse and diversity of academic programmes and students enrolled. It offers Undergraduate programmes offered by colleges of the University, an array of Postgraduate programmes (including Masters, M. Phil. and Ph. D.) and Certificate and Diploma courses.

In the academic session 2022-23, the University of Delhi decided to admit students to its Undergraduate programs only through the Common University Entrance Test (2022) conducted by the National Testing Agency. Close to 7 lakh candidates expressed their desire to study in University of Delhi, while filling the CUET form of NTA. After the conduct of CUET, the candidates aspiring to take admission in the Under-Graduate programs in the University applied through the Common Seat Allocation System (CSAS) which was launched on September 12, 2022.

In the Three-Phased process of CSAS, the candidates were required to fill the CSAS 2022 application form, conduct subject-mapping of the subjects studied by them in Class XII with the ones appeared in CUET, provide preferences for the programs and colleges in which they would join the University if allocated as per their merit score. The allocation policy under the CSAS was widely inclusive, transparent, and fair as it was based solely on the preferences submitted by the candidates, their category, merit, and availability of seats. Candidates were auto upgraded, if opted for it, to their better preferences in subsequent allocation rounds. Provision for Mid-Entry for the candidates who missed applying to the University within the stipulated time was also given to students.

Approximately 176,221 candidates applied to the University of Delhi through its Common Seat Allocation System (CSAS 2022). A total of 3 regular and 4 Spot Rounds of Common Seat Allocations were done. Through these 7 rounds, a total of 139,474 allocations were offered in various programs of the University, wherein 65,225 candidates secured admissions; among these there were 34,259 Females, 30,965 Males, and one candidate from Other gender. This year, candidates who got admissions covered a wide range of examination boards from across the nation; a majority of them from the Central Board of Secondary Examination.

Admissions to postgraduate programs of the University of Delhi were also successfully completed for the academic sessions 2022-23 through Entrance and Merit modes. A total of 20,1437 candidates had applied for admissions to 76 PG Programs in various Departments of the University. The University has started portal for online submission of Ph. D thesis wherein all the stakeholders including students can track the status of evaluation of their thesis. The next pioneering initiative has been the introduction of an online mechanism for accepting applications for the issuance of transcripts-making this process totally hassle-free.

Now examination branch has moved to Samarth portal, where the direct and hassle-free process of submission of examination fees led to an increase in the direct revenue of the University. Examination branch developed a mechanism by which all pass out students are being issued printed degrees immediately after the convocation.

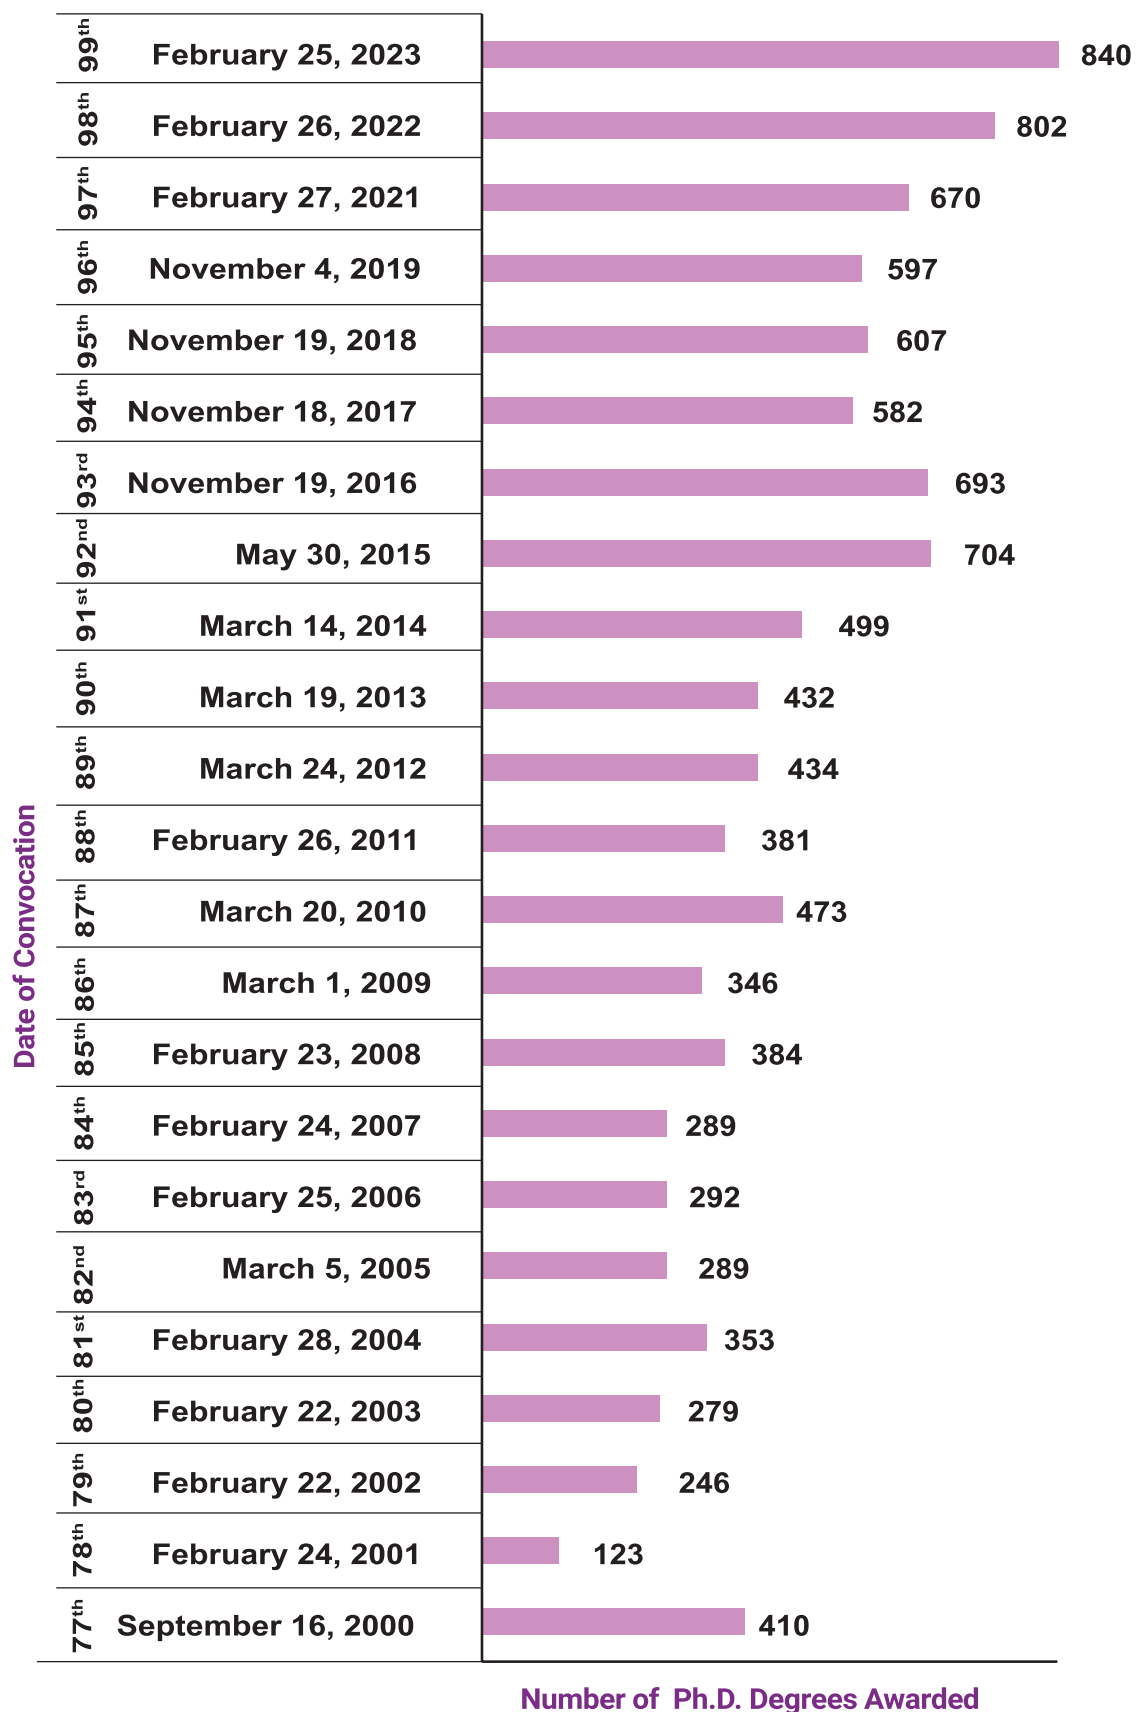

Examination branch of the University introduced a digital degree concept in 2021, and released 1.78 lakh digital degrees in the 97th convocation followed by 1.73 lakhs digital degree in 2022 in the 98th convocation and in 2023 University will be releasing over 1.53 lakh digital degrees. University created a record by Awarding 802 Ph. D degrees in a year during 98th convocation held in 2022.

The Examination Branch of the University has created history in the difficult times of COVID-19. Justifying its student-centric approach, it held Open Book Examination (OBE) from August 2020 to March 2022 which required a minimal level of internet facilities and declared all UG results in record 28 days' time in 2021.
